

Lawyers find themselves on a daily basis trying to navigate the ever-changing rules and opinions governing the practice of law. Whether it's forming a law firm, dissolving one, facing allegations of ethical violations, seeking Bar admission, or simply trying to remain in compliance, it's important for lawyers and law firms to have counsel in any proceeding where a law license is at stake.

Bast Amron is fortunate to have leading its ethics practice a lawyer that has concentrated in legal ethics for two decades. A newspaper reporter once wrote that Brian Tannebaum is "the lawyer that lawyers go to when they find themselves in hot water." He represents lawyers, law firms, and law students in all areas of legal ethics before the Florida Bar, Florida Board of Bar Examiners, the Supreme Court of Florida, and in federal disciplinary proceedings.
