Our approach to litigation is to keep our clients out of it, when possible. When businesses are unable to resolve their differences, however, litigation may be the answer. Our litigation teams guide our clients through virtually every aspect of a commercial dispute, from advising about the risks and means of resolving disputes before litigation to investigating, formulating, prosecuting litigation through trial, and collecting the judgments that are the result of successful litigation.